CLINGS TO STRANGE NAMES.

Civilization Hasn't Altered the Red Man's Fondness for Odd Titles.

However rapidly the Indian is traveling the path of civilization, it is plain from a casual reading of the notices in the South Dakota newspapers of inherited Indian lands for sale that their names do not change. In one of these advertisements appear the following:

Edward Snow Boy, Emily Crow Dog, Joseph Red Leaf, Little Bird, R. Spotted Eagle, Lob Long Ear, Lizzie Lone Bull, Jonah Iron Whip, Samuel Four Star, John Omaha, Julia Humming Bird, J. Pretty Feather, Jonah One Elk, R. Crazy Eyes, Lizzie Long Ear, Medicine Horn, Feather-in-the-Ear, Cecilia Curly Feather and Robert Kill Bear.

Probably a fourth of these Indian heirs bear the names of white fathers. Half a century ago a colony of Frenchmen settled in the vicinity of the Mandans and Brule Sioux, and nearly every one of them married an Indian. Their progeny are represented by such names as Picotte, Achambeau, Arconge, DeBont, Brunot, Dezor, Tasage and Bruyer. Descendants of these Frenchmen own great tracts of land and many cattle in the northwest.

Many of the Indians still retain their old form of name. From another advertisement come these: Sunakokipapi, Iwankewastwin, Cuncagowakanna, Ouncagotapawin, Wawoklyewin, Pejutowin, Wakocogawin, and the like.

WORTH MORE THAN THE COAT.

Statistician Figures Out the Tips for Caring for His Overcoat.

The statistician, as a rule, is not a popular person. He makes a display of figures, and they rarely or ever teach us a lesson.

For once, however, the statistician has appeared in the altogether new character of a "funny man" and what he tells us is worth recording.

The man in question is a bachelor, who spends most of his evenings in theaters and restaurants, and in a doleful voice he tells us that, owing to the tip system, his overcoat costs him on the average 50 cents a day from the tip in the restaurant where he lunches; in the restaurant where he dines; in the theater and in the restaurant where he has supper. And in this he does not reckon the tip he gives the servants in friends' houses who help him on with his overcoat.

This garment, for which he originally paid $40, therefore costs him $150 in tips in the course of the year.

And then his hat and umbrella! they, too, it appears, prove expensive, and necessitate a yearly outlay of $40 in gratuities, although he does not tell us how he works this out. It certainly sounds terrible.—Gentleman.

The Dangerous Crinoline.

In the days of the wearing of crinolines Lady Dorothy Nevill tells in her book of reminiscences how, but for her prompt action, she might very possibly have been burned to death. She was showing an engraving over the fireplace to a guest and in some way her voluminous skirts caught fire. "None of the women present could do much to assist me," she says, "for their enormous crinolines rendered them almost completely impotent to deal with fire. Had they come close to me they would have been in a blaze, too." So she had perforce to work out her own salvation, which she did by rocking herself backward and forward on a thick rug till the flames were extinguished.

Origin of Slang Phrase.

James Baker of the Royal Geographical society gives this little story of a Greek saint: "Our good St. Blasius for the saint was pleasantly done to death by having his flesh torn off by wool combs, and so he became the patron of the English wool combers; and as a high feast was kept up on his day, and the people who frequented the feast were called Blasiers, so the saying grew into the English tongue and remains there fixed and useful."

A Wise Physician.

"Molke."
"What is it, Pat?"
"Supposin' Oi was to have a fit?"
"Yis."
"And ye had a pint av whisky?"
"Yis."
"Would ye kneel down and put the bottle to me lips?"
"Oi would not."
"Yez wouldn't?"
"No. I could bring yez to yer fate quicker be standin' up in front of yez and drinkin' it myself."

Never Too Late To—

Father—Let me see, John, how old are you now?
Son—Just 30.
Father—Don't you think it about time you took your medical degree and started to work?
Son—Oh, no, father; people have so little confidence in young doctors!
Translated for Tales from Meggen-dorfer Blatter.

Not to Be Forgotten.

Minister's Wife (to her husband)—Will you help me to put the drawing room carpet down today, dear? The room is beautifully clean.
Minister (vexatiously)—Ah, well, I suppose I will have to.
Wife—And don't forget, John dear, when you are doing it that you are a minister of the gospel.

Wise Counsel From the South

"I want to give some valuable advice to those who suffer with lame back and kidney trouble," says J. B. Blankenship, of Beck, Tenn. "I have proved to an absolute certainty that Electric Bitters will positively cure this distressing condition. The first bottle gave me great relief and after taking a few more bottles, I was completely cured; so completely that it becomes a pleasure to recommend this great remedy." Sold under guarantee at Jacksons drug store. Price 50c.

SPECIAL OFFER FOR

July and August

Clinch Valley News FOR 50 CENTS

We want more subscribers in this county—at least 500 more than we now have. In order to obtain them we make this very liberal offer:

During the months of JULY and AUGUST we will sell yearly subscriptions to Tazewell county people, not now subscribers, for the small sum of FIFTY cents—half price.

Like the merchants, we are going to have a "cut-rate" sale during the two months named, JULY and AUGUST.

Remember, any one, not now a subscriber, can have the paper for 52 weeks for 50 cents, provided your subscription is received during either of these months.

The offer WILL NOT be extended beyond the last day of August. We make this offer, not because we think the paper is worth any less than heretofore. We think it is worth more, and is a better county paper than it has ever been, but we want more readers in this county, and must have them. We have already a larger list than any other paper circulating in the county, but we want more, and hence this offer.

The price puts the paper in the reach of everybody. Cash with the order.
